Mulicks Hand-maide

Teaching New and Pleasant LESSONS

FOR THE

Virginals or Harpycon

London, Printed for John Playford at his Shop in the Temple

To all Lovers of Musick.

HAving lately published several Books of Musick, both Vocall and Instrumentall, of which there was not any for the Virginals; An Instrument of much delight and variety of Harmony, as being the same with the Harpsicon and Organ, which Excellency hath made it the Delight of many young Ladies and Gentlemen, whose accommodation inclined me to Select these new and pleasant Lessons, which are not only Easie but Delightfull for young Practitioners, being most of them late Tunes and Dances set to the Virginals after the newest mode, and are so composed that the Treble Violin may play the Tunes along with the Virginals, which will be a pleasant Consort.

As for Instructions for the Practitioners who do endevour to learn by the Book what they play, (which is the best and surest way) there is a Book already published, which will be of much use and help to them, Entituled, An Introduction to the Skill of Musick, which doth direct them to understand the Gamut, and by it the places and names of their Notes, &c. But as for the true Fingering and severall graces used in the playing on this Instrument, it cannot be set down in words, but is to be obtained by the help and Directions of the skilfull Teachers, and the constant practice of the Learner, for it is the Practick part crowns the Work. And if these my first Endevours of this kind prove useful and acceptable to any, it will encourage me hereafter to publish a second of this kind.

JOHN PLAYFORD.
